

Community Living Room – A Heartwarming Story

Transcript of Cantonese short video

Voiceover:

Community Living Rooms (CLR) are dedicated to meeting the needs of “subdivided unit”(SDU) households by providing additional living space where SDU families can enjoy quality time together. We spoke with members at the Hung Hom CLR to understand how the CLR has improved their lives.

[Super]: Member of Hung Hom CLR

Mr. Han:

Our home is quite crowded so we wanted a comfortable place to celebrate my son’s birthday. The day before his birthday, I visited the Hung Hom CLR to ask if they could arrange some space for the birthday party.

Staff of the CLR:

The Han family regularly uses the CLR’s facilities. When we learned about their birthday plans, we immediately decorated the space and prepared snacks, hoping to make their birthday party special.

Mr. Han:

We brought a cake to the CLR and were amazed to see the decorations arranged by staff for my child. Other families and staff all joined the party.

Son of Mr. Han:

I was so happy, it was our first birthday party and everyone sing 'Happy Birthday song' with me.

Mr. Han:

We often cook and eat meals here. Our whole family loves this place.

Voiceover:

Diverse activities and trendy workshops at the CLR bring colours to SDU households' lives while strengthening community bonds, like the popular "Parent-Child Decoden Photo Frame Workshop", where families create decorative items and unleash their creativity.

Mrs. Han:

Today we made decoden photo frames. The results were more beautiful than we imagined.

Daughter of Mrs. Han:

This workshop was so much fun!

Voiceover:

By participating in various activities, CLR members relieve stress in a comfortable environment, build friendships, and enhance their quality of life.